CIA Promotes Herbert Scoville

Herbert Scoville Jr., formerly in charge of the scientific section of the Central Intelligence Agency, has been promoted to a new post of deputy director for research, it was disclosed yesterday.

Creation of the new post and Scoville's appointment to it emphasizes Director John A. McCone's desire to give greater scope to scientists in intelligence activities, it was said.

Scoville is a physicist who has worked at the Atomic Energy Commission and has been a weapons adviser to the Defense Department.

A graduate of Yale University, Scoville also studied at Cambridge University and Northwestern University. He is a native of New York City.
